Director at zach@bioversityma.org

Join us this year and celebrate Bioversity growing into the biggest and most diverse biotech certificate training program in Massachusetts. Through our growing impact in Boston and our new training site in Lowell, we are creating new economic opportunity for those without a college degree to enter new careers in the life sciences industry.

At this event, we will recognize our students and graduates, praise our employer partners, and grow our community committed to unleashing diverse talent on a new career journey.

When you sponsor this uplifting event, you aren't just donating financial resources, you are helping to open doors for hundreds of underrepresented and overlooked people by ensuring Bioversity's sustainable and ambitious future.
